

The Peacock Tale Party

An Online Event for Families

With Ken Voorhis, storyteller, musician, and leader in outdoor education for 40+ years.

Ken will share a couple stories,
some things to think about,
and maybe a song or two related to the idea of expanding our connection to nature and sense of place through rich experiences in the outdoors.

6 pm - 7pm

preregister at PeacockFamilyServices.org

For our 6th annual Peacocktail Party, we will once again bring together a community of voices in support of developmental strategies for working with children of all ages.

Seeing as how we cannot gather in person at this time for our traditional cocktail party, this year we will be having an online Peacock Tale Party, inviting the whole family to attend.

This will be an event that encourages the conversations between parents and kids, educators and families - sharing generations of stories and connections.

Ken Voorhis, storyteller, musician, and leader in outdoor education for 40+ years, will share a couple of his stories, some things to think about, and maybe a song or two related to the idea of expanding our connection to nature and sense of place through rich experiences in the outdoors.

After the presentation, we will gather in groups to discuss and share with each other our stories and connections, both past and present. We will end the hour with an encouragement from our Nature Nuts instructors to add to your experiences outdoors during the coming months with The Nature of Bainbridge Island scavenger hunt.

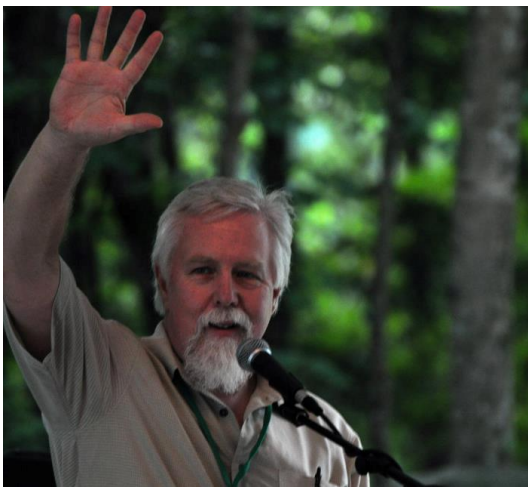

This evening promises to be an interesting and engaging event for the entire family. Preregistration required. Tickets available at PeacockFamilyServices.org. For questions regarding sponsorship opportunities, contact Kathy Haskin, Peacock Family Services Executive Director at Kathy@PeacockFamilyCenter.org.

An accomplished storyteller, Ken Voorhis enjoys sharing his love and knowledge about natural settings with people of all ages.

Ken recently retired from Yellowstone Forever, the non-profit education and philanthropic partner of Yellowstone National Park where he served as the Chief Operations and Education Officer. Yellowstone Forever is the merger of the former Yellowstone Park Foundation and Yellowstone Association, which Ken joined in 2013 as Director of Education. An educator, naturalist, and leader committed to connecting people and nature for 40 years, he also served as Executive Director of Great Smoky Mountains Institute at Tremont from 1984 to 2013.

Ken has served on the board of directors for the Association of Nature Center Administrators (ANCA) and is co-author of a publication in ANCA's Director's Guide to Best Practices on Programming. He has led and or participated in numerous peer consults through ANCA especially those focused on residential environmental learning centers on public lands. He has been a voice and leader on a national level helping to build capacity for in-depth learning programs in national parks.

He is also an avid photographer, storyteller and musician and enjoys many outdoor pursuits including hiking, canoeing, skiing, birding, botanizing, and exploring out-of-the-way, wild places.

Ken's areas of expertise include trees, salamanders, plants, birds, and developing naturalist skills. He currently lives on the edge of Great Smoky National Park with his wife, Jennifer, who is also an educator.
